

An NCSCT assessment is not available to me.

Note: Assessment availability is dependent upon region. If you are accessing our training outside of England, certain assessments may not be available to you.

1. Ensure that you are logged into your personal account.

The screenshot shows the NCSCT Online Training homepage. At the top, there is a navigation bar with links for Home, Online Training Home, Online Training Account, and Help. A yellow box labeled '1' with an arrow points to the 'Log In' button. Below the navigation bar, the NCSCT logo and the text 'ONLINE TRAINING' are displayed. The page content includes a section about the Practitioner Training and Assessment Programme, featuring a photo of a practitioner talking to a client. Another section, 'Practitioner Assessment', is highlighted with a yellow box labeled '2' with an arrow pointing to it, showing an image of a practitioner and the text 'Assessment of core knowledge and key practice skills'. At the bottom, there is a section for 'Training modules for health and social care professionals' with a photo of a practitioner and the text 'Both the Stop smoking aids and Vaping: a guide for healthcare professionals modules are essential training for stop smoking practitioners and will be of interest and use to anyone who assists people to stop smoking or who wants'.

2. Once you have completed a training course, go straight to the assessment. This must be taken independently of the training, or the attempt will be invalid.
